

MARS Bromont Rising U25 Grant Program Returns for 2026 Competitions

The MARS Bromont Rising U25 scholarship program, administered by the USEA Foundation, is pleased to announce that up to 10 grants of up to $2,500 each will once again be available for talented young riders aged 25 and under, who are aiming to compete in the MARS Bromont (Quebec, Canada) U25CCI's and the CCI4* this year.

The brainchild of organizer Sue Ockendon and the late Steve Blauner; the scholarship program was first offered in 2019 for riders competing at Bromont, and expanded to include Galway Downs on the west coast for the 2022 and 2023 seasons. Event horse owner Blauner had the vision of supporting young eventers from the US and Canada who were not yet under the radar of national U25 training programs. Ockendon had long had the dream of offering financial support to recognize and support the youth of the sport who are the future of Eventing in North America. A complete training program was devised to help the riders prepare themselves and their horses for the competition.

MARS Bromont Rising grants assist with travel and entry expenses, but the program also includes educational sessions with industry leaders including Bromont and Burghley cross-country course designer Derek DiGrazia; a "centreline workshop" dressage test analysis with FEI 5* judge and FEI World Championships 2026 eventing ground jury member Peter Gray; and cross-country course walks with returning guest coach Bettina Hoy. New initiatives for Bromont Rising 2026 include feature lectures on stable management with Max Corcoran; sponsor & owner relations; social license to operate; as well as a welcome BBQ for all Bromont Rising participants and their teams, Tuesday evening courtesy of the Wildasins and Fox Nation.

Riders competing in the U25CCI2*-L, U25CCI3*-L and CCI4*-L/S at the June event are eligible to apply. Stay tuned for exciting new announcements this year including increased prize money for all divisions including the CCI4*-S.
